

BTC Speciality Health receives ISO 13485 certification

BTC health (ASX:BTC) is pleased to announce its investee company, BTC Speciality Health, has achieved ISO 13485 certification (certification number: CERT-0133093). Certification endorses BTC's Quality Management System as meeting all the required standards for a medical device company.

Dr. Richard Treagus, Executive Chairman commented "Quality and safety are core values of our business. ISO 13485 certification reflects our company-wide commitment to product quality and patient safety. Our customers and supply partners can be confident in the knowledge that BTC health adheres to the highest operating standards."

Certification completes a detailed program of work, including an independent audit. It validates BTC's processes and procedures, which has determined they are appropriate, effective and meet all the requirements in ISO 13485.
